How To Get Along With People

Keep skid chains on your tongue; always say less than you think; cultivate a low, persuasive voice. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it costs you. Praise good work done, regardless of who did it. If criticism is merited, criticize helpfully, never spitefully. Preserve an open mind on all debatable questions. Discuss but don't argue. It is a mark of superior minds to disagree and yet be friendly.

Albany, population 17,074, is one of Oregon's oldest cities -- founded in 1848, and named after the capital of New York state. In recent years it has been one of Oregon's fastest-developing industrial centers, with some 65 local manufacturers employing approximately 8,400 workers drawing annual payrolls of $32.3 million. Several plants manufacture wood products, utilizing wood waste: Western Kraft Corp., manufacturing kraft paper, employing 175; Dura Flake Co., producing particle board, employing 105; Vancouver Plywood, manufacturing sheeting plywood, employing 300; Coquille Valley Lumber Co., manufacturers of sheeting and tongue & groove, employing 90; and Simpson Timber Co., producing plywood, employing 250. Other major Albany industrial payrolls: Wah Chang Corp., producer of six refractory metals, employing 550; Oregon Metallurgical Corp., ("Oremet"), reactive and refractory metals, employing 140; and the U.S. Bureau of Mines Experimental Station, employing 265. Agriculture, long a dominant factor in Albany's economy, continues to grow through Albany's several food processing plants; this also holds true of the seed processing business. Nationally-known firms with Albany plants include Stokely-Van Camp (frozen foods), Oregon Freeze Dry, Kat Rak Vieckle, Inc. Linn County's income yield from agriculture last year was an estimated $26,675,000.
